STUDY TOUR

WORKSHOP

June 9, 2014

Chers Etudiants,

Nous espérons que vous avez passé un bon premier week-end de cette session d'été ici à Aix. Surtout que vous êtes restés sains et saufs. Above all, I'll reiterate the importance of staying safe if out late at night. It was good to see you at our dégustation (wine tasting) this past Friday. Getting to know Provence also means learning its customs. By this point, we can only assume that any jet lag has worn off and that you are fully in sync with your surroundings. To extend those surroundings, this coming Friday, we plan to see you all for the day in the Luberon region (see below). We'll be looking forward to preparing that study tour with you this week.

A plus tard,

Leigh Smith

Dean of the College

(<https://www.google.com/maps/>)

It should be very hot this week so be sure to bring hats, plenty of water and good walking shoes. For the picnic, you can either bring your own food, or you'll have a chance to buy food at the first village we visit. That first village will be Lourmarin. After Lourmarin we will go to Lacoste and picnic behind the grounds of the château. From there we will end our day at the village of Roussillon with its ochre mines. There will be guides to tell you about these places.

WORKSHOP

"Building your resume and planning your career"

As she mentioned during orientation, former Ernst and Young senior partner and current Chair of IAU's Board of Trustees, Ms. Mary Frances Pearson, will be hosting a round table workshop with students interested in leveraging their study abroad experience to enrich their resumes and set sights on future careers. Keep an eye out. She'll be contacting you in the next days to set up a meeting time.
