THIS WEEK'S

LECTURES

WINE TASTING

June 23, 2014

Chers Etudiants,

Bienvenue aux nouveaux arrivés. La session C commence aujourd'hui et nous avons de nouvelles recrues parmi nous. Please make the new arrivals feel welcomed. For many of you, we are at the halfway point (yikes!) for the summer session, and I'd like to reiterate some of what we said on the first day of orientation. Many of you only have three weeks left, and this would be a good time to reconsider what you came here for. What were your objectives and are you any closer to achieving them? Has your French improved? Have you integrated into a new culture? Do you see the world with slightly different eyes, and what does it look like? Different than before? Try to make the best of these next weeks to maximize your time here, in class and out of class. We look forward to being part of it.

Bonne chance et bonne continuation,

Leigh Smith

Dean of the College

Resume-building and professional guidance

Back by popular demand, Ms. Mary Frances Pearson, IAU's Board Chair, International Lawyer and former senior partner at Ernst and Young, will be available to meet with students for workshops on how best to leverage your study abroad experience to beef up your resume and present your professional skills. She'll be writing to students soon to set up meeting times.

WINE TASTING

Bordeaux-Champagne, Friday June 27, 4:00pm-6:00pm Manning Hall, Salle Mistral

From the deep red Bordeaux to the airy, bubbly wines of Champagne, Professor Amy Mumma will be presenting the last of this summer's wine tastings. Sign up.
