

IAU SPRING TROUBADOUR #9

"Footfalls echo in the memory, down the passage we did not take, towards the door we never opened, into the rose garden."

T.S. Eliot, Four Quartets

Chers Etudiants,

Une semaine un peu différente nous attends en ce qui concerne nos présentations et conférences. Nous vous encourageons vivement à profiter de ces présentations car ce sera vraiment hors du commun. Talks/presentations are always compelling at IAU, but this week we really do have some events that are atypical, even for us. It would be a shame to miss out what will be some truly memorable and unique perspectives. We plan to see you in big numbers this Tuesday and Wednesday evening. We have been very encouraged by such positive turnouts at the evening talks so far and look forward to seeing a lot of you this week. You may notice also that we have posted the reading for next week from some of our Resident Fellows. Again, another presentation a little different from our typical lectures. As a reminder, the talks are followed by receptions and a chance to discuss in person with the speakers. So be there.

A bientôt,

Leigh Smith

Dean

Presentation :

Tuesday, 28 March - 6:30pm, CEF Main Hall

« Visiting the New and Open Iran: a Travelogue » Dr. Guillaume Durand, IAU College

This one will be a little different from our usual lectures. Dr. Durand traveled with a group to Iran in November, returning with some very unique observations to share. Those of you fascinated with the very idea of travel as adventure and discovery will have plenty to stoke your curiosity further.

Lecture :

Wednesday, 29 March - 6:30pm, CEF, Main Hall

« Why We Need a Political Party for Women's Equality » Sophie Walker, Leader of the Women's Equality Party

As a candidate for mayor of London (visit link), Sophie Walker topped headlines with her declaration that London is the worst place to live in the UK if you're a woman. She is a compelling speaker who will surely open up a passionate debate.
