

IAU FALL TROUBADOUR 9

« On ne découvre pas de terre nouvelle sans consentir à perdre de vue, d'abord et longtemps, tout rivage. »
"One doesn't discover new lands without consenting to lose sight, for a very long time, of the shore."
Andre Gide, The Counterfeiters

Chers Etudiants,

Nous espérons que vous avez tous passé un bon long week-end. Vous avez sûrement beaucoup entendu vos collègues français et vos familles d'accueil vous poser des questions. Vous avez certainement entendu les français poser des questions sur leur propre avenir politique avec les élections présidentielles du mois de mai 2017. We're sure there has been plenty to talk about in the last week, either among yourselves or together with your French peers and host families. The open discussion from last Wednesday evening did reveal a lot about the anxieties and the uncertainties among both staff and students. Hopefully, the last few days, whatever they have revealed about the coming administration, have been helpful in giving some form to what is to come. Though one of our professors of political science and international relations, Professor Philip Breeden could not be there, I found his message to us all very comforting. You can read it here. Another week full of activity. Lectures, wine tasting, etc.

For now,

Passez une excellente semaine,

Leigh Smith

IAU Professor Aboubakr Jamaï Honored by the Project on Middle East Democracy

A big congratulations to Professor Aboubakr Jamaï. November 30 he will be honored by the Washington group Project for Middle East Democracy (POMED at www.pomed.org) for his years of work as a journalist and advocate for Democracy in North Africa and the Middle East.

All of us at IAU can be very proud to have Professor Jamaï as a colleague and a professor. He is a role model to us all and has worked tirelessly toward bringing free elections, human rights and justice to troubled regions.
