

IAU SPRING TROUBADOUR #11

"L'enfer, c'est les autres", écrivait Sartre. Je suis intimement convaincu du contraire. L'enfer, c'est soi-même coupé des autres."
"Hell is other people", wrote Sartre. I am deeply convinced of the contrary. Hell is oneself cut off from other people."
Abbé Pierre, Servir: Paroles de vie.

Chers Etudiants,

Nous espérons que vous avez tous passé une bonne semaine de pause et que, même en vacances, vous avez suivi les résultats d'hier. Un point positif cette fois, c'est qu'il n'y avait pas trop de surprises. Still, it's not over yet, and with two weeks still to go until the second round of elections plenty can still happen. We will count on you to stay informed. When the time comes for you to return to your homes (yes, that time is near), you will have the duty of accurately informing your friends and family back home. There is enough misinformation out there already. Your time here can at least contribute to setting some of the record straight. Other than that welcome back. It's been very quiet here, and we look forward to getting back into the swing of things with you around. This will be a very active week. For those of you who have yet to attend any of IAU's lectures, this is your week. We have been extremely pleased with how diverse and unique the talks have been this Spring semester. Rest assured you won't regret coming. There is a lot to take in, and we hope you won't let these last few weeks go by without having expanded your outlook in the company of truly knowledgeable people.

Passez une excellente semaine,

Leigh Smith

Dean

Got stuff you don't want to take home?

Soraya Handy and Collin Vanacek have offered to collect any belongings that you do not want to pack and deliver them to Emmaus, an international charity with a base here in Aix. There will be boxes put out this week in the three IAU buildings in central Aix.

Blind Tasting:

Tuesday, 25 April, 12:30-3:00pm, Student Services, Manning Hall

You'll get to taste four wines, guess the varieties and win prizes! Open to all IAU students.

Translation Games
