

IAU FALL TROUBADOUR 3

"Freedom is hammered out on the anvil of discussion, dissent, and debate."

Hubert Humphrey

Chers Etudiants,

Puisque beaucoup parmi vous sont de nationalité américaine, on suppose que vos familles d'accueil ou les français ou autres nationalités que vous rencontrez vous posent des questions sur l'élection présidentielle de ce novembre. On suppose également que vous avez quand même plus ou moins décidé. Those of you voting in the upcoming presidential election in the US will probably have a pretty good idea of what candidate you'll be choosing. As the first debate between Clinton and Trump takes place tonight, why don't we take a look at where the IAU community stands? To that end, we invite you all (US voter or not) to make your choice on the survey at <https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/IAU-PresSurvey2016>. Students, professors, administrators should all respond, with results to be posted by tomorrow (Tuesday). In preparation for tonight's debate, US voters can find out how to either register to vote or how to request and send their absentee ballots in. See below and ...

Passez une excellente semaine,

Leigh Smith

Dean of IAU College
